

Miami Herald, and confirmed by unofficial Mexican observers.

One fact that appears to definitely confirm the ties of the forum with North's Project Democracy was the presence of Jaime Morales Carazo, member of the board of the National Opposition Union (UNO), an umbrella group of the Nicaraguan Contras. In June 1986, he apparently proposed a total alliance with the PAN to an UNO meeting in Miami, to make it the party in power in a few years. Morales is one of the closest cronies of Adolfo Calero, Jeane Kirpatrick, and others, for liaison operations between Mexico, Miami, and Honduras.

The real, anti-business purpose of the meeting was made clear by the PAN leader, Manuel J. Clouthier, when he threatened the actual businessmen who did not want to throw themselves into the collective suicide of political adventurism. Clouthier asserted that the "people of Mexico," i.e., the PAN, "does not forgive nor will it ever forgive those businessmen who negotiated with the political power that has been oppressing the majority." What this means, the PAN demonstrated in last year's elections when they blocked businesses, sacked private homes, spread slanders, harassed people by telephone, and verbally insulted and in some cases physically attacked businessmen who sympathized with the government or did not want to get involved in the PAN's adventures. This strategy was called by the PAN, "civic death."
