The current crisis in former Yugoslavia may well become the catalyst that will push the Muslim communities of western Europe into waging a terrorist campaign as an avenging Jihad. . . . Consequently, Teheran’s argument that the suppression of the Bosnia-Herzegovina Muslims is the first step in a major campaign waged [by] the western governments aimed at destroying the Muslim communities of Europe is in agreement with, and strongly reinforces, the beliefs already held by these emigré communities. . . . Consequently, the great threat caused by the continued carnage in Bosnia-Herzegovina comes from the foreign volunteers and the numerous local Muslims trained in the Middle East who are capable of carrying their avenging Jihad into the heart of Western Europe. . . .

‘Kidnappers Inc.’ is really ‘Murder, Inc.’

by Roger Moore

Evidence made public during the kidnapping trial of Don Moore and Galen Kelly, members of the multi-jurisdictional federal, state, and private agency “Get LaRouche” task force, in Alexandria, Virginia last December, points to their involvement as “major players” in the U.S.- and Israeli-controlled $82 billion weapons bazaar developed around the Iran-Iraq War. The ties of Kelly, ostensibly a private detective from New York State, to the weapons dealers—and assassins—who supervised the weapons deliveries and distribution of profits from that war, explains the incredibly profound corruption involved in the actions of the federal judge who virtually instructed the jury to acquit the defendants (see EIR, Jan. 8, p. 62).

According to the heavily edited transcripts of secretly taped conversations of Moore and Kelly presented by the prosecution at their trial on charges of conspiracy to kidnap Lewis du Pont Smith, an associate of U.S. statesman and economist Lyndon LaRouche, the two began working together in 1985 in efforts to destroy the political movement associated with LaRouche. In an Aug. 18, 1992 discussion, former Loudoun County, Va. Sheriff’s Lieutenant Moore told an FBI informant, who had infiltrated their kidnap plot against Lewis du Pont Smith, “There is an entire subculture of people like Galen Kelly, who are not spies, they’re not CIA agents.

They’re not arms dealers. They’re a set of guys who hang out with the guys that do. They’re on the edge, they’re on the periphery of it and sometimes they become a major player and sometimes they don’t.”

Just who are these arms dealers and intelligence agents with whom Kelly is “sometimes” a major player?

JINSA and arms to Iran

In a Sept. 19, 1992 discussion, Kelly described his relationship to the little-known “Jewish Institute for National Security Affairs” (JINSA) in Washington, D.C. “The executive director used to be, still is, Shoshana Bryen. Her husband is some honcho in one of the government agencies. And they are a direct relationship between the Pentagon and the Israeli Defense Force. All of their meetings take place in their office. Now I used to be on their board of directors.” This admission of Kelly’s is of startling significance and puts him in the middle of the illegal, but covertly sanctioned, participation of the United States and Israel in the profits of the eight-year Iran-Iraq War. JINSA was a coordinating point for arranging shipments of NATO weapons stockpiles, via the Israelis, to Iran. It was also a coordination point for decisions on which “private” weapons dealers could partake in the business.

JINSA, and its networks within the U.S. government, were also responsible for protecting the espionage network of the Israeli LEKEM spy unit which was run out of the office of then-Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir’s security adviser, Rafi Eytan. This network was exposed with the 1985 arrest in Washington of Jonathan Jay Pollard, a young, cocaine-using "intelligence analyst" with high security clearance, who got his job at the U.S. Navy Terrorist Alert Center through JINSA networks. Pollard was convicted and given a life sentence for passing U.S. military secrets to Israel. Israel, in turn, traded the secrets to the Soviets as part of a deal for emigration of Soviet Jews to Israel. It is thus not accidental that the Anti-Defamation League's Mira Lansky Boland, who still coordinates the work of Kelly and Moore, was a classmate of Pollard's at Tufts University in Boston, Massachusetts. After graduation, Pollard went to Naval Intelligence, and Lansky Boland to employment at the CIA.

Kelly's self-proclaimed relationship with JINSA gives new meaning to the criminal means he and Moore were prepared to use in their efforts to destroy the LaRouche movement. Moore frequently talks about using "wetworks" against LaRouche's associates. The October 1986 paramilitary raid of 400 heavily armed federal, state, and local police on the Leesburg, Virginia offices of LaRouche-linked businesses, for example, was an attempt to murder LaRouche in a provoked incident under cover of a search warrant.

Terrorism on the West Bank

The tapes in the kidnap trial also provide important clues to Moore and Kelly's relationship to secret assassination cells in the Israeli Occupied Territories, as well as in the United States. As documented in the trial, Kelly repeatedly used "muscle" for his kidnappings drawn from the Jewish Orthodox Lubavitcher sect. As Moore described, when Kelly needed muscle, he would call the Brooklyn, New York Rabbi Menachem Schneerson, the world leader of the sect. The special security unit of the Lubavitchers was also involved in the "Jewish Underground" on the West Bank which ran many assassinations against Palestinians in an effort to drive them out of the area. According to the author of The Profits of War, Ari Ben Menashe, who is a former associate of Rafi Eytan, profits from the Israel-mediated weapons sales to Iran were used to buy land from terrorized Palestinians in the Occupied Territories. "Whenever money was to be disbursed in a big way for the West Bank, the aid of Rabbi Menachem Schneerson, the Lubavitcher Rebbe, whose court is in Brooklyn, New York, was enlisted. He gave his blessings, and through his financial institutions, large amounts of money were funneled."

Eytan's "Jewish Underground" was not merely active in the Occupied Territories. In 1985, Alex Odeh, the head of the California office of the Arab-American Anti-Discrimination Committee, was murdered in a bomb attack. The killers had all been trained for the Eytan-run "Jewish Underground" at the Qiryat Arba Jewish settlement on the West Bank. This settlement was also a safe house for thugs of the Jewish Defense League of Meir Kahane. Kelly, never far from this Murder, Inc., often used JDL members in his so-called "anti-cult" kidnappings in the New York City area.

The transcripts of the tapes submitted as evidence for the trial were heavily edited, with deletions designated "non-pertinent information," i.e., discussion topics not immediately relevant to the charge of conspiracy to kidnap Lewis du Pont Smith. We can presume with certainty that evidence relevant to overturning the corrupt conviction of political prisoner LaRouche is contained on the cassette tapes made by the informant, but deleted in the transcripts made public at the trial. However, the limited, but damning statements which were release show the nature of the mad beast responsible for LaRouche's imprisonment.

Minnesota AG aids national kidnap ring

In materials derived from discovery in a civil rights case, and from tapes recorded by the FBI in an alleged kidnap plot, evidence has surfaced that raises questions as to whether Minnesota Attorney General Hubert "Skip" Humphrey III and employees of his office may be in the midst of a national "kidnap-for-hire" ring.

Two years ago, Humphrey's office instituted improper bank seizures and attempted to have issued unconstitutional search warrants for bank records in Pennsylvania and Virginia for the Constitutional Defense Fund (CDF), the legal defense fund that has carried the fight against illegal government efforts to "get" Lyndon LaRouche and his associates, this news service, and over a dozen other organizations.

Enter Don Moore

At that time, the law enforcement officer who assisted Humphrey's office in Virginia was Don Moore, then a deputy in the Loudoun County, Virginia Sheriff's Department.

In a civil rights action later filed by CDF for malicious prosecution, the depositions of the two members of Humphrey's staff who had initiated the action, an investigator and a Special Deputy Attorney General, revealed extensive contact with Moore, Mira Lansky Boland of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith (ADL), members of the family of Helen Overington, and others associated with the so-called anti-cult deprogramming outfit, the Cult Awareness Network (CAN).

Investigator Richard Munson, while in his initial testimony attempting to limit his contact with Moore to the period during which Moore was still in law enforcement, was forced to admit that his contacts with Moore continued up until the time of Moore's arrest, this past September, on federal
