Satanists in high places exposed in Minnesota

by Philip Valenti

Two hundred people attended a meeting in St. Paul, Minnesota on Feb. 2, titled "The Franklin Coverup: Child Abuse, Satanism, and Murder in Nebraska." The forum was organized by the Schiller Institute and addressed by institute representative Philip Valenti; Nebraska attorney John DeCamp; Lewis du Pont Smith, an heir to the Du Pont chemical fortune and associate of Lyndon LaRouche; and Jack Graham, County Attorney of Crow Wing County, Minn. In his opening remarks, which we publish here (slightly abridged), Valenti cites a special report that he authored for New Federalist newspaper, "Skip Humphrey and the Criminal Abuse of Power." Portions of that report were published in EIR, Oct. 29, 1993. An updated second edition has since been released, and is available from New Federalist, P.O. Box 889, Leesburg, Va. 22075.

Let me explain why we're in Minnesota. In 1992, Lewis du Pont Smith and his wife, Andrea, were the targets of a kidnapping conspiracy. This conspiracy was financed by Smith's father, working with private groups that were longtime political enemies of Lyndon LaRouche, and were determined to destroy his political movement: the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith and the Cult Awareness Network. Now the Anti-Defamation League has a reputation as some sort of civil rights organization; but its offices were raided by the San Francisco police on April 8, 1993, and they came up with massive evidence that this ADL runs a national spy network, with intimate relations with various law enforcement agencies. In fact, they have functioned as a private arm of the FBI, when the FBI was prohibited from carrying out Cointelpro dirty tricks, spying, keeping enemies lists on private citizens.

These groups were planning a kidnapping. As Lewis will explain, one of the former deputy sheriffs in Virginia, whom they tried to recruit to this conspiracy, was an honest cop who went to the FBI and told them about it. That put the FBI on the spot. They had to inform Lewis and Andrea about this, and they put wiretaps on the phones of the conspirators. They put recording devices on one agent they had in the ranks of the conspirators, and the group was arrested before they could carry out this kidnapping.

Humphrey targets LaRouche associates

During the trial, which was in September, October, and November 1992, they released the wiretaps, transcripts, and tapes. Among the tapes was a lengthy discussion between Rick Munson, an investigator in Minnesota Attorney General Hubert "Skip" Humphrey's office, and Don Moore, a disgraced cop from Virginia, the ringleader of this kidnapping conspiracy. Although on the wiretap transcript that we have, they didn't discuss this kidnapping directly, it is clear that they were discussing a national political conspiracy, launching a coordinated political attack against the LaRouche movement throughout the country, with Humphrey's office collaborating intimately with Don Moore and the Anti-Defamation League and the Cult Awareness Network in launching a political attack, including indictments on false charges and planting negative stories in the press.

The closing comment of Rick Munson to Don Moore was, "We really want to get these guys. We really want to get these guys." This would fit in perfectly with the kidnapping plans, to have some big blowup, negative stories in the press, arrests of LaRouche supporters, to cover for the kidnapping that was planned to occur around September 1992.

Now is this something new with Skip Humphrey? It is not, as far as the political prostitution of his office goes, using his office to try to destroy his political enemies or the enemies of the people who control him or finance him. I have here a letter dated Aug. 26, 1986, signed by Hubert H. Humphrey III, on the stationery of the Attorney General of Minnesota, a letter sent out to thousands of members of the Democratic-Farmer-Labor (DFL) party in the congressional district which was then represented by Bill Frenzel. The letter says:
Minnesota Attorney General Hubert "Skip" Humphrey III (left) parades as "Mr. Clean," while he covers up for the real child abusers, and falsely accuses independent prosecutors and political activists who are seeking to restore justice.

"Dear DFLer,

I enthusiastically support Ray Stock in his bid to upset Bill Frenzel. Ray has a big task ahead of him and he needs your help. First he must defeat a LaRouche disciple in the primary and then take on the entrenched Bill Frenzel. Ray needs you to vote in the primary. We must show the nation that Minnesota will not tolerate the LaRouche fringe. Ray intends to see that what happened in Illinois does not happen here."

What happened in Illinois in 1986, was that two LaRouche supporters, fair and square, won the Democratic primary for lieutenant governor and secretary of state. There's nothing wrong with Skip Humphrey having a political opinion. But when you put that on the stationery of the Attorney General of Minnesota and mail this out, that's something else again. Destroying that political movement becomes the policy of the Attorney General's office, which is supposed to be objectively involved in enforcing the law.

What followed, was Humphrey throwing out any DFL member who was a supporter of Lyndon LaRouche. "Kick him out!" "Call the police." Candidates were kicked out of meetings. The police were called in on gubernatorial candidate Andy Olson.

We have a gentleman here tonight, Richard Van Bergen, who has announced his candidacy for the DFL nomination for governor this year, who won the DFL nomination for state legislature in his district in 1988. A LaRouche supporter, a Democrat. In 1990, he was elected as a delegate to a district convention; he was kicked out, solely because he supported LaRouche, despite the fact that the Democrats in the county convention had elected him. In 1992, the same thing happened, even though Jack Graham, the Crow Wing County Attorney, came down to defend him: They kicked him out anyway, on orders of Humphrey.

So we came to Minnesota last June to explain the story of this kidnapping conspiracy, and other people began coming forward with other examples of similar atrocities by Humphrey's office. This is not just a Minnesota issue, because Humphrey is now the president of the National Association of Attorneys General. He is in a position to coordinate and spread his poison nationally. This is a concern of everybody in the United States, not just people in Minnesota.

Humphrey's abuse of power

Here is a flyer that some of you may have heard about—from the Red Lion Disposal company. "We handle all your hazardous waste disposal problems. Fast, friendly, experienced, dependable.” This was mailed out to 571 businesses in the Twin Cities back in 1992, offering very cheap disposal of hazardous waste. Two little companies called up: All-Fire Test in Minneapolis and Pioneer Custom Cabinets in St. Paul. All-Fire Test had a barrel of old paint wastes they’d had for years—maybe this was an opportunity to get rid of it. The haulers come in; people dressed like trash men come in with a truck, look at the owner of the company, and say, “Attorney General’s office. You’re under arrest, for hauling hazardous waste without a license.” They drag him off to jail, strip search, fingerprint. What is this about? A Gestapo raid. “Hands up! You’re coming with us.” Simultaneous raids against the little company in St. Paul. Two weeks later, the phone starts lighting up with calls from the press. “How do you respond to what Attorney General Humphrey said today?” “What did he say?” “He went on television to say your firm is a disreputable company. Violating the hazardous waste laws.” Twelve employees. Denounced on television by Humphrey. People lost their life savings trying to defend themselves.

In May 1993, Judge Monahan of St. Paul threw it out as unconstitutional entrapment by Humphrey’s office. The crime was created by Humphrey’s office to aggrandize Humphrey and to justify further funding for his little Gestapo operation, which he called the E-Team, the environmental Gestapo. That case is documented in our report.

You have the case of Jack Graham, Crow Wing County Attorney, independent-minded. Can’t tolerate that in Minnesota! Especially with the sex abuse cases and other crimes going on. If you have somebody independent in law enforcement, they might try to clean it up. Who knows where that would lead, what high-level people would be implicated?

Jack Graham had the courage and integrity to look at the case of Lyndon LaRouche and realize that it was a political frameup, to write to President Clinton demanding that LaRouche be freed. That kind of independent thinking is evidently not tolerated in Humphrey’s Minnesota. Humphrey muscled in to Crow Wing County, took over two local child abuse cases on totally fraudulent grounds. Two people who, all the evidence showed, were innocent, were charged with these crimes. Humphrey wanted a propaganda cover to try to drive Jack Graham out of office, to get petitions to recall him. The petitions were thrown out by the Supreme Court, because they didn’t specify any crime. Now Jack Graham is on the offensive against Humphrey, and I’ve invited him to address our rally on Feb. 24. The rally will be a coalition effort. You don’t have to be a Lyndon LaRouche supporter to be there. You just have to know the truth about Humphrey, and what needs to be done.

The Jordan child abuse case
But the most atrocious case that we researched was the Jordan child abuse case. Many people today in Minnesota still think that case, in 1983-85, was a hoax. That prosecutor Kathleen Morris was a hysterical woman, overzealous, going after people who were innocent and concocting charges, and that it was all made up. But there is evidence of massive child abuse, sexual abuse of children, in Jordan, Minnesota. The Minneapolis Star Tribune interviewed Morris in February 1985 and asked, Why are you so concerned about this? Did you have a personal experience with sex abuse? "No, she said; it's simply a matter of having seen what sex abuse can do to kids. One of the victims in the current cases, for example, has had her genital and rectal organs so badly damaged that she can't control either her urination or defecation. 'She often smells. She'll be that way for years and years, maybe for the rest of her life. I've had kids tell me they'd rather be dead.' " (Minneapolis Star-Tribune, Oct. 21, 1984)

The doctors examined the children, and the evidence of sexual abuse is overwhelming and irrefutable.

Jack Erskine, one of Humphrey's collaborators in the coverup, along with Norm Coleman, tried to dismiss the evidence of child abuse by saying, "Only 16-19 children were sexually abused in Jordan" (emphasis added). That's a quote, from the Minneapolis Star Tribune, from Jack Erskine. Only 16-19, not 40, were sexually abused.

The case is documented in the [New Federalist] Humphrey report, how Kathleen Morris was lied to by Humphrey: Just let me handle it. Get your personality out of this. I'll take care of it. I'll make sure the kids are put in foster homes. I'll make sure that later on we pursue criminal charges.

Lying, lying. Kathleen Morris will tell you to this day, "that was my big mistake, believing Skip Humphrey." Because what he did, with the help of the FBI, was to simply cover up that case.

Was that case just local? You'll see in the Humphrey report a reprint of the front page of the Nambla Bulletin, January-February 1985. That's the North American Man-Boy Love Association. They now have an official position at the United Nations as a non-governmental organization, and there's some controversy over that. It's a group that advocates legalized sex between adults and children. Their slogan is, "Sex before eight, or else it's too late." They're involved in organizing pedophilia internationally, mostly based in Holland. Nambla was founded by David Thorstadt, of Minnesota. And then there's Phil Wilke, who's on the national board of Nambla. He's a prominent gay rights activist in the Twin Cities, one of the grandsons of Wendell Wilke.

The Nambla Bulletin wrote: "R. Kathleen Morris, Witch-finder General of Minnesota, Calls It Quits. Parents Organize in Defense of Abuse of Power by the State." The North American Man-Boy Love Association celebrated the fact that Humphrey took over those cases. Nambla at that time was part of the Human Rights Campaign Fund of Steven Endean of Minnesota—the homosexual political lobby that had endorsed Mondale's campaign for President in 1984.

The Nebraska connection

What's the connection to Nebraska? Some years later, John DeCamp wrote his book The Franklin Cover-Up: Child Abuse, Satanism, and Murder in Nebraska (Lincoln, Nebraska: AWT, Inc., 1992). In the appendix, there is an interview with Paul Bonacci, one of the former child-victims of the prostitution pedophile ring that was uncovered in Nebraska, who is now one of John DeCamp's clients. Bonacci, in prison, independently testifies that he was brought to Jordan, Minnesota to be sexually abused in the Valley Green Trailer Park, naming several of the same people that Kathleen Morris had charged, whom Humphrey had protected. He independently corroborated everything that Morris had said.

Further investigation has shed important new light on the case of Jacob Wetterling who at age 11, was kidnapped at gunpoint in 1989 from his home near St. Joseph, Minnesota, as John DeCamp will explain.

Prosecutor Graham: Impeach Humphrey!

John Remington Graham, the County Attorney of Crow Wing County, Minnesota, issued a call for the impeachment of state Attorney General Hubert Humphrey III on Oct. 7, 1993. In a presentation to the Schiller Institute's conference in St. Paul on Feb. 2, he detailed Humphrey's criminal abuse of power and miscarriage of justice in Crow Wing County, concluding with the following statement:

I have learned what a great honor it is to be a prosecutor, and what tremendous responsibility can be on a man's shoulders, how lives are affected. If you have that power and you use it with the fear of God in your heart, and a love of justice, what wonderful things can be done! But woe unto any prosecutor who abuses that sacred trust, to prosecute innocent men, by perpetrating public fraud for political reasons. . .

When you have a thug, like Skip Humphrey, who makes a mockery of our system of justice, by literally criminal abuse of that great power, it is time that we, the citizens of this republican Commonwealth of Minnesota, make an example of such a criminal in public office.

I join my friends of all political persuasions. I'm not here because I'm a LaRouche Democrat; I'm here because I'm a Minnesotan, and I want clean government in Minnesota. I join, as one of the prosecutors of the state of Minnesota, honored to stand as such, and call for the impeachment of Hubert H. Humphrey III as Attorney General of Minnesota.
