From the Associate Editor

Last week, we reported that Dick Cheney's neo-conservative faction had dropped its "ignore LaRouche" posture, and launched a frontal attack, through the Moonies' Insight magazine. This week the attacks escalated, with the Wall Street Journal and Fox TV—house organs of the neo-conservative lunatic fringe—both contributing delirious commentaries on how dreadful it is that LaRouche will be getting nearly a million dollars in Federal matching funds, as one of the front-running Democratic candidates for President.

LaRouche must be doing something right! Indeed, this week's issue gives a global overview of what has the Wall Street synarchist bankers so enraged. Start with Mexico, where nationalists are on the move to save their economy from privatization and deregulation, and where thousands marched under banners of the LaRouche movement, such as "LaRouche: Mexico's Ally Against Cheney and the IMF!" Then, in Russia, there are promising signs of a reorientation of national economic policy towards national security interests, at the expense of foreign investors and domestic speculators—the direction urged by LaRouche in his many visits to Moscow since 1994. In Korea and Japan, as Kathy Wolfe reports after an Asian tour, LaRouche's policy perspectives are being eagerly studied by patriots seeking to find a way out of the impasse into which U.S. policy has driven them on all fronts. As she reports, a Korean panel moderator at a conference in Okinawa exclaimed, "I saw LaRouche's Youth Movement myself, in front of the White House, handing out leaflets promoting the Iron Silk Road!" And in Europe, Amelia Boynton-Robinson, the 92-year-old civil rights movement leader, campaigned for LaRouche, justice, and humanity, in a tour that touched the hearts of hundreds of young people, especially.

Our cover story and Editorial elaborate LaRouche's call, published last week, "Restore Iraq's Constitution." That statement is circulating as a leaflet, internationally.

Coming attractions: LaRouche is now in Paris, and next week's issue will report on his intervention there. He will hold a webcast on Dec. 12, officially inaugurating the "hot phase" of the Presidential campaign. What will Cheney do then?
