

Lieberman and Cheney March In the Footsteps of Joe McCarthy

by Jeffrey Steinberg

In Nazi Germany, one of the most feared institutions was the Gestapo, with its vast network of millions of informants, penetrated into every community, every workplace, every church and university. Under the control of Herman Goering, and ultimately, SS chief Heinrich Himmler, the Gestapo is the absolute epitome of evil, which sent millions to their death or enslavement.

In the United States, during the 1950s, the image of the Roy Cohn-steered drunken Sen. Joseph McCarthy, railing, on the floor of the U.S. Senate, about “lists” of hundreds of Communists, infiltrated into the State Department and other agencies of government, was the moral equivalent of Himmler and Goering’s Gestapo. McCarthyism’s body count may have been vastly smaller than that of the Nazi SS and Gestapo, but the catalogue of ruined and scarred lives spans several generations. McCarthyism is the ultimate proof that “it can happen here”—and it did.

The New McCarthyism

When President Bush nominated John Ashcroft as Attorney General in January 2001, Lyndon LaRouche warned that Ashcroft would seek the first opportunity to stage a “Reichstag fire” incident, to impose police-state measures on all Americans, in a replay of Hitler’s Spring 1933 seizure of dictatorial power in Germany. Despite sufficient votes to block his confirmation, the U.S. Senate confirmed Ashcroft, when Sen. Tom Daschle (D-S.D.) blocked a filibuster. Earlier this year, Attorney General Ashcroft proved LaRouche 100% right, when he attempted to establish a nationwide gestapo informant network, under the direct control of the Justice Department and the FBI, as part of the misnamed “Patriots Act,” passed in haste by the U.S. Congress following 9/11. When the plans were made public, the outcry was so great that the program was scrapped.

But now, under private auspices, in the wake of Sept. 11, 2001, and in furtherance of the Bernard Lewis and Samuel Huntington declaration of civilizational war against the entire Islamic and Confucian culture of over 2 billion citizens of this planet, a new McCarthyism is running amok inside the United States.

Its leading proponents, as in the McCarthyism of the 1950s, are prominent figures in the political world. One is a serving U.S. Senator and recent Vice Presidential candidate—Joseph Lieberman (D-Conn.). The other is the wife of the Vice President of the United States and a former head of the National Endowment for the Humanities, Dr. Lynne Cheney. Together, they founded an overtly McCarthyite agency, the American Council of Trustees and Alumni (ACTA), which, post-9/11, has launched a vicious campaign of slander and financial warfare against any academics who dare to challenge the “official” version of the attacks in New York and Washington. Like their inspiration, Joe McCarthy, they, too, have compiled a phony list of academics, charged with failing to toe the lying official line that Osama bin Laden was the author of the 9/11 attacks.

If you dare to oppose the Cheney-Lieberman war on Iraq and other manifestations of the neo-conservative brand of universal fascism, then you may soon find yourself in the cross-hairs of this gang of wanna-be Himmlers and Goerings. If you are an Arab-American student or professor, or a Middle East scholar, on the campus of an American university, invaded by this Gestapo, you may find yourself the victim of hooligan attacks by vigilante squadristi, or the target of a campaign to have your tenure revoked.

In one recent instance, Prof. Sami Al-Arian, of the University of Southern Florida in Tampa, was stripped of his tenured post and fired from the engineering faculty—after local prosecutors were visited by officials of the Israeli government, who presented a dossier, purporting that Dr. Al-Arian was a top Palestinian terrorist. He was charged, in the bogus dossier, of leading terrorist cells in Egypt—at a time when he was obtaining his post-graduate degree in Michigan—many thousands of miles away from Cairo, Alexandria, or Luxor.

ACTA has now spawned a veritable alphabet soup of allied agencies, targetting elected officials, academics, and university students with the same gestapo venom.

Among the agencies engaged in this coordinated witch-hunt are: Americans for Victory Over Terrorism (AVOT), which was launched, post-9/11, by ACTA founder William Bennett, along with James Woolsey, Frank Gaffney, William Barr, and money-bags Lawrence Kadish; Campus Watch, a project of the Middle East Forum, led by Daniel Pipes, which has created an Internet website, which is recruiting an army of campus-based informants, charged with ratting out fellow students and teachers who dare to challenge the “morality” of Israeli Prime Minister Ariel Sharon’s “ethnic cleansing” campaign against the Palestinians; Committee for Accurate Middle East Reporting in America (CAMERA), a spawn of the right-wing Likudnik spy agency, Jewish Institute for National Security Affairs (JINSA), which targets any U.S. media outlet that dares speak the truth about the events in the Middle East; honestreporting.com, a parallel organization to CAMERA, which is run directly from Israel by right-wing circles; and Middle East Media Research Institute (MEMRI), headed by former Israeli military intelligence Col. Yigal Carmon and, until recently, by Meyrav Wurmser, which spits out selective inflammatory articles from the Arabic press, and circulates them to policymakers and media, to further the “Clash of Civilizations” attack on Islam.

LaRouche Warns

Lyndon LaRouche, Democratic Party Presidential pre-candidate for the 2004 elections, has issued a warning about the Cheney-Lieberman gestapo. Some, he noted, will object to drawing a parallel to Hitler, Himmler, Goering, and McCarthy. However, the truth must be told, or else we will wake up in America one day, stripped of all our liberties. This kind of witch-hunt, LaRouche warned, is the first step toward tyranny. In the early 1930s, the Germans capitulated to the first steps, and look what they got. Now, people like Joe Lieberman, Lynne Cheney and William Bennett, are lending their names to the same effort. They are doing it again, LaRouche warned, but they do not yet have the power to make it stick. Now is the time to stop the witch-hunt—before it is too late!

‘Not Patriotism, But Fascism’

Indeed, LaRouche has provided, once again, the dramatic statement of the truth. But he is, fortunately, not alone.

- On Dec. 20, 2001, the Hartford Advocate published a scathing editorial, headlined “Joe McCarthy Lieberman?” which read, in part: “When Republican Sen. Joseph McCarthy stood in front of Congress, Feb. 20, 1950, and for six hours rifled through old State Department dossiers claiming he had proof that 81 State Department employees were Communists, it guaranteed for all time that he would be remembered as an enemy of the time-honored American tradition of free speech and free association. Similarly Lieberman, who sits on the advisory board of the American Council of Trustees and Alumni, which released a report that criticizes universities for evidence of anti-Americanism during the current war in Afghanistan, may be enhancing his chances of being remembered by posterity as the Censorship King.”

- A week earlier, responding to the same “list” of aca-

A press conference by the Committee on American Islamic Relations (CAIR), in March 2002, protested the Justice Department raids on homes and businesses of Arab-Americans, including the International Institute of Islamic Thought in Herndon, Virginia. Those raids were just the beginning of what Lieberman, Cheney, et al. have in mind to further the Clash of Civilizations.

demics practicing “anti-Americanism,” the San Jose Mercury News published an op-ed by Prof. Roberto J. Gonzalez of San Jose State University, headlined “Lynne Cheney-Joe Lieberman Group Puts Out a Blacklist.” The professor charged that “an aggressive attack on freedom has been launched upon America’s college campuses. Its perpetrators seek the elimination of ideas and activities that place Sept. 11 in historical context, or critique the so-called war on terrorism.” Citing the ACTA report, “Defending Civilization: How Our Universities Are Failing America,” Professor Gonzalez wrote: “Although the council’s stated objectives include the protection of academic freedom, the report resembles a blacklist. In a chilling use of doublespeak, it affirms the right of professors to speak out, yet condemns those who have attempted to give context to Sept. 11, encourage critical thinking, or share knowledge about other cultures. Faculty are accused of being ‘short on patriotism’ for attempting to give students the analytical tools they need to become informed citizens.”

Indeed, the ACTA report named 40 prominent academics and cited 117 purported “incidents” of “anti-Americanism.” In one instance, ACTA attacked the president of Wesleyan University in Middletown, Connecticut, for having circulated an open letter warning that “disparities and injustices” in American society can spawn hatred and violence.

Gonzalez concluded that “the report represents a kind of academic terrorism designed to strike fear into the other academics by making examples of respected professors. . . . This is not patriotism, but fascism. . . . The targetting of scholars who participate in civic debates might signal the emergence of a new McCarthyism directed at the academy. Before it escalates into a full-blown witch-hunt in the name of ‘defending civilization,’ faculty, students, and citizens should speak out against these acts of academic terrorism.”

- On Dec. 14, 2001, the National Catholic Reporter editorialized against “A ‘Defense’ That Civilization Can Do Without.” “It is difficult,” the editorial began, “to tell exactly what Lynne V. Cheney, Sen. Joseph Lieberman, and others who constitute the American Council of Trustees and Alumni are trying to accomplish with their project. . . . The title is as overblown as the sentiment that drives the effort: No one should ask questions of the American war effort.” The editorial concluded with a stern warning: “It would be absurd, indeed, if this ‘report’ were not indicative of a dangerous fervor stalking the country, a fervor intolerant of questions and dependent on ignorance of recent history.”

- On March 15, 2002, Jim Lobe warned, in the online publication Foreign Policy in Focus, that “The War on Dissent Widens.” Lobe, who has written a series of well-researched exposés of the Paul Wolfowitz-Lewis Libby-Richard Perle neo-conservative cabal inside the Bush Administration, targetted the ACTA spawn, Americans for Victory Over Terrorism, which had published a full-page New York Times advertisement on March 10, attacking “radical Islam” and an amorphous “enemy within” which “promulgates their agenda of ‘blame America first.’” AVOT extended their blacklist beyond academe, naming a number of leading elected officials and prominent editorialists as enemies within. Among the targets: Rep. Maxine Waters (D-Calif.), who dared to criticize President Bush for “going crazy” with the authority to go after terrorists; former President Jimmy Carter, who attacked G.W.’s “axis of evil” formula as “overly simplistic and counter-productive”; Rep. Dennis Kucinich (D-Ohio), who accused the President of “cancelling, in effect, the First, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, and Eighth Amendments”; American Prospect editor Robert Kuttner, for criticizing “Bush’s dismal domestic policies” and his “dubious notion of permanent war”; and Lewis Lapham, the respected editor of Harper’s magazine, who reminded his readers that, during the 1990s, the United States had engaged in terror tactics in the Balkans and in Iraq.

At the Washington, D.C. press conference launching AVOT, Frank Gaffney, who was investigated in the 1980s as a suspected co-conspirator of Jonathan Jay Pollard, the American convicted of espionage for Israel, mustered up his best Joe McCarthy imitation, ranting to the small audience that any criticism of the Bush Administration's conduct of the war could be "interpreted in such a way as to hurt national resolve . . . [and] embolden the enemy." He urged, "We must pay special attention to friends like Saudi Arabia and Egypt whose ongoing use of media are creating problems for our allies"—an obvious reference to Israel. In the crazed world of ACTA and AVOT, a criticism of Sharon's Nazi actions is tantamount to treason against America.

Leading Promoters of The New McCarthyism

Suite 800 Washington, D.C. 20036 (202) 467-6787
888-ALUMNI-8, <http://www.goacta.org>

Founded in 1995 by Lynne Cheney and Sen. Joe Lieberman, who was described as "one of the most active members" of its advisory board by the New York Times of Aug. 24, 2000. Released Defending Civilization: How Our Universities are Failing America and What Can Be Done About It, on Nov. 11, 2001, with funding from the Randolph Foundation, the William and Karen Tell Foundation, and Jane H. Fraser. ACTA said it would send its blacklist to 3,000 trustees at colleges and universities across the nation.

ACTA contributed $3.4 billion to colleges and universities in 2000—the largest private source of support for higher education. It has created a network of agents through its Advisory Committees—Trustees' Council, Presidents' Council, Alumni Leadership Council, Scholars Council (including Irving Kristol's wife, Gertrude Himmelfarb), and Donors Working Group. Funding: From 1995 through 2000, ACTA received $1.3 million from the Olin Foundation, Bradley Foundation, Sarah Scaife Foundation, Earhart Foundation, and Castle Rock Foundation.

The Olin, Bradley, and Sarah Scaife Foundations fund the nexus of neo-conservative think-tanks such as Daniel Pipes' Middle East Forum (see Campus Watch, below), and Samuel Huntington's Olin Institute for Strategic Studies at Harvard. They promote: war on Iraq as the trigger for Huntington's Clash of Civilizations war with Islam; Sharon's genocide against the Palestinians; and attacks on American Muslims culminating in U.S. Attorney General Ashcroft's assault on Constitutional rights.

National Council members (board of directors): David

Attorney General John Ashcroft's attempt to set up a nationwide gestapo informant network was scrapped under public protest, so now an assortment of private agencies and foundations are trying to accomplish the same thing.

Circuit; member of U.S. Solicitor-General Ted Olson's "salon" for the impeachment of former President Clinton.

1701 Pennsylvania Avenue NW, Suite 900
Washington, D.C. 20006
(202) 452-6216, <http://www.avot.org>

Launched on March 12, 2002 by PNAC members William Bennett and Frank Gaffney, and James Woolsey. (All three signed an April 3, 2002 PNAC letter to President Bush to "stand with Israel" and overthrow Saddam Hussein.) In a full-page ad in the New York Times on March 10, 2002, AVOT called radical Islam "an enemy no less dangerous and no less determined than the twin menaces of fascism and communism we faced in the 20th Century,” and denigrated those who “are attempting to use this opportunity to promulgate their agenda of ‘blame America first.’ ”

It recommends as sources on the Mideast, the Middle East Media Research Institute (MEMRI), Bernard Lewis, and Samuel Huntington. In September 2002, AVOT began a series of campus teach-ins and lectures.

Senior Advisers: William Bennett—co-director, Empower America, ACTA National Council, former chairman, National Endowment for Humanities; William Barr—former U.S. Attorney General; L. Paul Bremer—chairman and CEO of Crisis Consulting Practice of Marsh, Inc., former managing director at Kissinger Associates, former U.S. Ambassador, member of the International Institute of Strategic Studies; Frank Gaffney—founder and president of the Center for Security Policy, suspected “X Committee” member, former Assistant Secretary of Defense; Lawrence Kadish—real estate investor, founding chairman of the Committee for Security and Peace in the Middle East; Walid Phares—associate professor of political science and comparative politics, Florida Atlantic University; Ruth Wisse—professor of comparative literature, Harvard University; R. James Woolsey—CIA Director 1993-95, current member of the Defense Policy Board and leading agitator for war against Iraq; trustee of the Center for Strategic and International Studies.

Campus Watch

Created and sponsored by Philadelphia-based Middle East Forum (MEF), Campus Watch was launched on Sept. 18, 2001, listing “dossiers” on 8 professors and 14 universities, now expanded to 21 universities. Encourages students and faculty members to provide names of Middle Eastern studies professors who criticize Israel. MEF spun off from the Foreign Policy Research Institute (FPRI), which houses some of the leading right-wing Zionist networks in the U.S. foreign policy apparatus. MEF publishes Middle East Quarterly, promoting Islam as an enemy image and embracing Huntington’s policy.

Daniel Pipes—director of FPRI (1986-93); director of MEF; columnist for Jerusalem Post and New York Post; member, AEI’s New Atlantic Initiative; author of a book on conspiracies that slanders Lyndon LaRouche. Khalid Duran—MEF editorial board member who worked with Steven Emerson to produce “Jihad in America,” for the Public Broadcasting System, promoting the idea of Islam as the enemy. Martin Kramer—Middle East Quarterly editor, Tel Aviv University. Patrick Clawson—director of research of the pro-Likud Washington Institute for Near East Policy.

Dr. Lynne Cheney and The Pollard Gang

Vice Presidential wife Lynne Cheney is a hard-core neo-conservative, closely linked to the Israeli agents at the American Enterprise Institute, including AEI’s “universal fascist,” Michael Ledeen, and Richard Perle, the Iraq war’s chief chicken-hawk running the Defense Policy Board. Both came under scrutiny during the 1980s investigation of Israeli spy, U.S. citizen Jonathan Jay Pollard.

The “Cheney family circle” includes Michael Ledeen and his wife Barbara; the “granddaddies” of neo-conservatism; Irving Kristol and his wife Gertrude Himmelfarb; and also their son, William Kristol. Dick Cheney’s contribution to this neo-conservative coven is his chief of staff, Lewis “Scooter” Libby, a protégé of Deputy Defense Secretary Paul Wolfowitz. Libby was the attorney for Wall Street fraudster Marc Rich, who arranged his Presidential pardon after massive payoffs to the right-wing Israeli lobby in 2000.

Lynne Cheney has a gaggle of close female associates who stand out as Washington’s leading McCarthyites. She Cheney has long-admired Himmelfarb—also known as “Himmler-farb” for her neo-con thought-policing—and Cheney brought her in as a top adviser when Cheney was chairman of the National Endowment for the Humanities (1986-93). The female bonding is one of the tracks through which Himmler-farb’s son William Kristol’s study on American Empire, for the Project on the New American Century (PNAC), became the September 2002 White House National Security Strategy document.

In 1992, Barbara Ledeen recruited Cheney to the Independent Women’s Forum (IWF). Ledeen has been associated since the early 1980s, with the terrorist plot against Jerusalem’s Temple Mount by right-wing Israelis and Christian Zionists associated with the U.S. neo-conservatives. Commentators say IWF “is neither independent nor a forum.” It is an appendage of the network of foundations (see Profile) that finance the right-wing Christian Zionist/Jabotinskyite organizations. IWF has received more than $2 million from the Bradley/Olin/Scaife and Smith Richardson nexus, and includes Wendy Gramm, wife of Sen. Phil Gramm, who brought us the notorious Enron deregulation swindle; and Labor Secretary Elaine Chao, wife of Sen. Mitch McConnell, another Iraq war fanatic.
