

UN Summit Covers for Genocide Policy

by Leni Rubinstein

Sept. 17—The Sept. 20-22 UN General Assembly Millenium Development Goals (MDG) Summit in New York City, intended to measure progress in reducing world poverty by the goal year of 2015, is rendered a travesty before it even starts, because its metrics were designed by the very financial interests who are imposing destructive globalism since the MDG hoax was begun in 2000. Moreover, now that the globalist monetarist system is itself collapsing in hyperinflationary bailouts and physical economic breakdown, it is urgent to confront and break with the premises of the MDG hoax completely, and make way for a new era.

This is what will be taken up the same week as the UN session, in a webcast by Lyndon LaRouche, Sept. 24, on “The New Economy” (www.larouchepac.com). LaRouche is leading an international drive for financial reorganization under the principle of the Glass-Steagall Act of 1933, leading with the reinstitution of it in the United States, and combining it with restoration of fixed-rate currency relations. This creates conditions for nations to collaborate in full-scale infrastructure-building projects, leading with the North American Water and Power Alliance (NAWAPA) in the United States, and counterparts on other continents. Not simply “recovery” measures, these actions vector the world into planetary evolutionary improvement.

How does the Millenium Development Goals framework stand in total opposition to this LaRouche development perspective? The MDG campaign consists of a stated list of “goals”—mostly formulated as innocent-sounding altruisms—but which are to be pursued in a context of globalist practices that undermine nation-states, and harm populations. Among the London-serving evil cynics who orchestrated the MDG hoax are mega-speculator George Soros; Britain’s Lord Mark Malloch-Brown; and Bill Gates, billionaire philanthropist, who explicitly calls for population reduction.

First, look at the specific MDG goals; then their premises.

In September 2000, eight goals were set, broken down further into 21 targets: 1) eradicate extreme poverty and hunger; 2) achieve universal primary education; 3) promote gender equality and empower women; 4) reduce child mortality; 5) improve maternal health; 6) combat HIV/AIDS, malaria, and other diseases; 7) ensure environmental sustainability; and 8) a global partnership for free trade and good “governance.”

But the fundamental assumptions, and methods chosen to pursue these goals, make them unreachable. Firstly, nations have been bludgeoned to yield their sovereignty to free trade, huge commodity cartels, floating currencies, wild speculation, the infamous Inter-Alpha banking network, etc.

Secondly, MDG demands agreement to hoaxes such as global warming, fixed resources, and other greenie myths, deployed against infrastructure and development programs. Instead of creating new natural resources, such as water, the MDG mandate is to use less.

Finally, a system of mega-private philanthropies has been deployed—with Bill Gates, Warren Buffett, and the Rockefeller Foundation in the lead—for single-issue “causes,” such as fighting malaria, or lip-service to food “security,” instead of fostering thriving, sovereign nation states.

MDG Originators Cause Food Crisis

The result of the MDG drive, is that its originators have succeeded in their intent of subverting nations, and killing people, and met none of their ameliorative goals. The reality is:

At least one-sixth of the world’s people lack adequate food. Millions cannot afford to eat. In early September, food riots erupted in Mozambique, when bread prices soared 20%.

World food production is half of what it could be, because of lack of infrastructure for water and soil, transportation, non-cartel plant genetics, etc.

Speculation is running rampant; for example, on Aug. 6, wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade set an all-time day-trading record for the number of transactions, hitting 316,053. Today, corn futures rose over $5 a bushel in a trading frenzy in Chicago, a two-year record.

On Sept. 24 in Rome, the UN Food and Agriculture Organization will host a food summit, to politely decry food price “volatility,” but strictly within the MDG framework.
