

---

Editorial

War Against Green Genocide!

For more than 40 years now, a green blob has been spreading across the United States, suffocating what used to be the genius of the American people—our determination to use science and technology to achieve continuous progress for all mankind.

Green ideology is not some innocuous sentimentality about the beauty of untouched nature, clean air and clean water. It is a degradation of man to the level of the beast, denying his God-given role as a co-creator in the universe, and thus, condemning nature, as well as man, to degradation and death.

The history of mankind on this planet is a history of scientific and technological leaps of progress, moving to increasing higher levels of power over nature. As Lyndon LaRouche has developed in his physical-economic/scientific work, these levels are best identified through the energy-flux density of power sources, and as that energy-flux density increases, through human creative invention, so does man's ability to progress.

Green ideology outright opposes that progress, claiming that man is just another part of nature, and must essentially leave it as he found it. If this had been the practice of mankind historically, we would still be living lives that were, in Hobbes' words, nasty, brutish, and very short.

So, if mankind's very nature and history is characterized by progress, dependent on the development of man's mind, where did Green ideology come from? Certainly not from the Founders of the United States—Benjamin Franklin, Alexander Hamilton, and their followers. Certainly not from their predecessors in the great Italian Renaissance, such as Brunelleschi and Nicholas of Cusa. No. Green ideology has been imposed on mankind by a particular oligarchical class which is determined to bestialize the bulk of mankind, in order to satisfy its own desire for absolute rule.

LaRouche has defined this oligarchical principle as the Zeus principle, because it dictates that mankind act as slaves to the oligarchical class. Under Zeusian rule, mankind is denied access to technological and scientific progress, and condemned to living for immediate gratifications. Zeusian oligarchs insist that mankind not become too numerous, lest it demand the resources which they wish to keep for themselves, or gain the power to overthrow the oligarchy's rule. What better ideology to fit this life of degradation than that of the Greens.

There is another crucial aspect of this Green ideology that must be faced: that is its moral aspect. Mankind is responsible for the consequences of his actions, and inactions, and the consequences of Green ideology—the sabotage of nuclear power, mass electrification, and large-scale water management come to mind—are knowable. Millions of people have died as a result of the sabotage of nuclear power in Africa, to take just one example. A similar case can be made for mass deaths by mosquito-borne diseases, which could have been prevented, but for Greenie opposition to the use of DDT and the failure to eliminate of certain wetlands. Instead, the Greenies demand we restore the swamps!

Such consequences brand Green ideology as not just anti-human, but evil. Killing technological progress leads to genocide, just as surely as the death camps set up by mass murderers like Hitler.

The solution is clear: War against Green ideology and its sponsors! Advance humanity by going nuclear now!