

Facebook: A Tombstone With a Picture Attached

by Nick Walsh

As an elderly porn advocate recently noted in an article in (waste of) Time magazine, visits to porn sites on the web are down 33% over the last two years. Where, the author asks, have all the viewers gone? To “social networking” sites like Facebook! As of today, there are 50 million dead souls floating in this virtual graveyard, a number growing by the day. Why all the furor?<sup>1</sup>

As stated by founder Mark Zuckerberg, “the company develops technologies that facilitate the sharing of information through the social graph, the digital mapping of people’s real world social connections.” Wait a minute! Only a fool would profess to digitally map the metaphysical principles of human social interaction. This professed mission is physically impossible, and actually insane. So what’s really going on? This “social graph” is actually a mind control site, now directed by mass killer enthusiast Bill Gates, and anglophile Facebook board members Peter Thiel and Jim Breyer. Whose minds will they control? Only those who want to clear the way for unchecked globalization.

A Cyber Grave: The Fantasy Life of Cowardice

There’s always this ideological framework that one sees on the other side: “Yes, there’s this artificial reality, but it’s not the real world. There’s always a difference between a copy and the original; there’s a difference between being an avatar and being a physical person, and those things are fundamentally, completely different and that this real world of physical space-time is the primary reality.” I would submit to you that it’s more of an open question. . . .

Peter Thiel, Board of Directors of Facebook

First look at Peter Thiel, who contributed $500,000 to Mark Zuckerberg in 2004, to start up Facebook, and who has had a long history of interest in campus-based mind control. His career began as a founder of the Stanford Review, the flagship publication of dirty fascist William F. Buckley’s Intercollegiate Network in 1973. As LaRouche PAC exposed one year ago in the pamphlet “Is Joseph Goebbels on Your Campus?” the Intercollegiate Network was part of a highly coordinated nationwide fascist youth movement on the college campuses of that time. The Intercollegiate Network, just like Facebook today, had the appearance of being run by independent-minded youth, while actually being run by high-level political circles interested in turning campuses into human zoos.

Thiel is a lackey of the right-wing oligarchy, and was allowed to earn money gambling with derivatives at Cr dit Suisse bank, and later, to make a killing from the PayPal website. Today, he is on the board of the right-wing VanguardPAC, whose mission is to promote right-wing Federalist Society members for the Supreme Court, such as Samuel Alito and Antonin Scalia. These movements, as shown in the LaRouche PAC pamphlet “Children of Satan IV: Cheney’s Schmittlerian Drive for Dictatorship,” are nothing but pawns of the British empire, just as Hitler and his legal theorists in 1930s Germany were. But, to elaborate this point, read Thiel here, waxing about the glories of the new British empire: “More and more of the world’s wealth exists in these offshore jurisdictions and havens. About 40-50% of the wealth of the world exists in small offshore jurisdictions. In places like Monaco, or Andorra, or San Marino, or Lichtenstein, or Luxembourg, or Switzerland. You have all the Cayman Islands, the Caribbean, Bahamas, Barbados, Antilla. . . .”<sup>2</sup> These islands, nearly all of them part of the Anglo-Dutch world empire, are what Thiel and friend Richard Rahn, who is director of the British Cayman Islands, claim to be the new virtual economy. Listen to Thiel and Rahn in their own words, interviewed by Peter Robinson of the Hoover Institution:

Robinson: “Does electronic money, E-money, pose a threat to the sovereignty of the United States?”

Rahn: “Yes, and to every other government.”

Robinson: “And you’re happy about that?”

Rahn: “Yes. Because it empowers people. It liberates people.”

[Robinson then turns to] Thiel: “Yes it does. Although mostly to emerging world governments as a first step. [The] U.S. Government [is] probably the least threatened, but

1. Or, as in this case, one might more appropriately ask, “Why all the F hrer?”

2. Speech at “Accelerating Change” meeting at Stanford University, 2004.

they're all threatened to greater-lesser degrees."

Robinson: "Let's establish a beat—right off the bat there. The two of you are talking about a revolution then."

Rahn: "That's right."

Thiel: "Well, it's happening right now, whether people realize it or not."

Silicon Valley Implants

Thiel's fellow Facebook board member, Jim Breyer, is also a long-time lackey for Anglo-American psychological war games and economic globalization. He sits on the board of Anglo-American Accel Partners, which has one branch in Palo Alto, Calif., the location for 1950s MK-Ultra mind-control experiments, and the other in the heart of the City of London, within a short walk from Buckingham Palace.<sup>3</sup> This "equity" (a.k.a. robbery) firm,<sup>4</sup> Accel, gave $12.7 million to Zuckerberg, for Facebook, in August 2005, to develop a site where "people can go and look up other people and find relevant information on them ... what they're interested in, their contact information, what courses they are taking, who they know, who their friends are, what people say about them, what photos they have now..." Huh? Why would an Anglo-American financial group be interested in controlling a social networking website?

To answer this question, look at Breyer's long, close business partnership with Gilman Louie, member of the Markle Foundation Task Force on National Security in the Information Age, and founding CEO of In-Q-Tel, a non-profit venture capital firm chartered by the CIA, with a mission to not only "discover" new firms with technology useful to "intelligence gathering," but to corral private investment into these firms as well. Upon Louie's appointment to the CIA post, which he held from 1999-2006, Breyer said, "It appears in this effort the CIA has chosen well." Breyer's and Louie's interest in cultural warfare goes back decades to when Accel supplied Louie's video-game firm Spectrum HoloByte with huge infusions of cash.

Breyer and Louie also work closely with Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency (DARPA) board member Anita Jones, who sat on the board of In-Q-Tel with Louie. DARPA is not only leading the effort to create human cyborgs for Dick Cheney's perpetual wars,<sup>5</sup> but also was the creator of the Information Awareness Office (IAO) in 2002. According to DARPA's own fact file, using 9/11, of course, as pretext: "The most serious asymmetric threat facing the U.S. is terrorism. This threat is characterized by collections of people loosely organized in shadowy networks that are difficult to identify and define. These networks must be detected, identified, and tracked."<sup>6</sup> The IAO, therefore, headed by Iran-Contra fink John Poindexter, had the mission for "the development of revolutionary technology for ultra-large all-source information repositories ... to create a virtual, centralized, grand database." Yikes! The U.S. Congress, worried about the creation of a "mass surveillance system," shut the IAO down; but, just as with the Iran-Contra scandal, this project has continued, privately, through "information repositories" like Facebook.

3. Breyer also sits on the Board of Directors of WalMart Stores, Inc. and child-fantasy company Marvel Entertainment, Inc.

4. Breyer shares the Board of Accel-KKR with the founders of Kohlberg, Kravis, and Roberts, a "pioneer" equity firm in the 1980s for economy-destroying "leveraged buyouts." (See Lyndon H. LaRouche, Jr., "From Milken and Enron to Perugia: Extreme Events," in this pamphlet.)

5. See Gabriela Arroyo-Reyes, "The Cyborgs of Silicon Valley," in this pamphlet.

6. Would this shadowy definition of "asymmetric threat," allow the IAO to "detect, identify, and track "loosely organized people," such as college students, plotting the impeachment of Dick Cheney?

Look to the year 2005, when Accel infused Facebook with cash. That was the same year that Jim Breyer co-directed the National Venture Capital Association (NVCA) with Gilman Louie. The NVCA, claiming to represent “free capital,” is composed mostly of money from Thiel’s favorite “offshore” tax havens, such as the British Cayman Islands. These Cayman Islands are the financial center for dismantling the American auto sector, for hyperinflating our presently dead housing bubble, and for start-up “tech firms” (e.g., firms developing killer game simulators and mind-control/fantasy sites, to destroy American culture).<sup>7</sup> But, don’t separate this “venture capital” from Cheney’s perpetual war policy. In 2006, at a time when a “night of the long knives” was carried out by Cheney’s CIA Director Porter Goss against anyone in the CIA opposed to domestic spying and torture, Breyer’s buddy Gilman Louie proved himself loyal to the cause, and received two Seal Medallions and the Director’s Award for “services rendered.”

The Gates of Hell

To seal the tomb, or put a virtual nail in Facebookers’ coffins, look now at Facebook’s new leading ghoul, Microsoft’s Bill Gates.<sup>8</sup> Contrary to popular mythology, Gates is not a proof of the success of globalization, but rather the opposite. Gates’s mind and morals typify the satanic rot which is globalization, and serve as an alarm to non-stupid citizens of this republic, that something has gone terribly wrong. Look, for starters, to the Microsoft “Judgment Day” Halloween Party of Oct. 31, 1995, hosted by Gates to celebrate his recent takeover of id Software’s kill-simulator “Doom,” the game which would program Eric Harris and Dylan Klebold to be extremely effective suicide-murderers, in the Columbine High School massacre. The party included a Doom tournament, called “Deathmatch ‘95,” and an id Software display featuring “an eight foot tall vagina with dildo teeth. Inside, two members of [the band] G.W.A.R dressed in fur and raw meat attacked passersby with rubber penises.”<sup>9</sup>

Of course, Gates was not to be outdone, appearing, himself, in the evening’s Microsoft Games promo video. The video begins with a first person view of the Doom simulator, with a shotgun firing off kill after kill of monsters. Then, the shotgun shooter walks onto the screen, turns, and reveals Gates himself to be the assassin, dressed in the black trench coat, such as what the Columbine killers would later wear.<sup>10</sup> Gates, while cooing that Windows is the only software for really advancing these killer games, is then approached by another ghoul, and blows it away with his pump shotgun, before saying, “Don’t interrupt me.” Afterwards, the Microsoft slogan appears, but changed, to read, “Microsoft: Who Will You Execute Today?” which then becomes splattered with blood and brains after a loud gunshot sound.

Columbine Bill Is Watching You

There’s this notion that “traffic” [on the Internet] equals profit, and, you know, traffic does not necessarily equal profit. Traffic equals—maybe you can take it and translate that into something, and I always think, maybe we’ll buy the traffic first, and figure out what to do with it next. . . .

Bill Gates on the Charlie Rose Show

Don’t kid yourself. Bill Gates is not a passive “investor,” nor is he a creative entrepreneur. He is an aggressive enabler, for decades now, of the military-entertainment complex, and of its intention to destroy the minds of our military personnel, and our youth.<sup>11</sup> Through games like online Counterstrike and Halo 3 for Xbox, Gates is advancing the psychotic “Revolution in Military Affairs,” along with its accompanying cult of teenage “suicide bombers,” like Seung-Hui Cho of Virginia Tech. Also, Gates’s vision, like that of Thiel and Breyer, is to equate the human mind with a “plugged in” digital system, the Wellsian vision of a world brain. The name of the brain will be: Microsoft Xbox. At least one in every living room! Gates’s stake in Facebook is driven by this psychological motive: “Tune in, turn on, and dumb down.”

Read his words yourself. Interviewed in 1993, Gates said, “I don’t think there’s anything unique about human intelligence. All the neurons in the brain that make up perceptions and emotions operate in a binary fashion. We can someday replicate that on a machine.<sup>12</sup> Eventually, we’ll be able to sequence the human genome and replicate how nature did intelligence in a carbon-based system. It’s like reverse engineering someone else’s product in order to solve a challenge.” Then the interviewer asked, “Isn’t there something special, perhaps even divine, about the human soul?” and Gates replied, “I don’t have any evidence on that,” while reportedly rocking, nervously, back and forth.

Now, look to Gates’s “strategic partnership” with Facebook, agreed to in August 2006. Within one month of this part-

7. A British partner of Breyer at Accel, Bruce Golden, also works at Mind Candy, a London gaming firm presently developing “Moshi Monsters,” a MySpace-style, psychological control and profiling operation, for 7-12-year-olds! (See video at <http://www.moshimonsters.com/>)

8. A source for this article reported, in confidence, that the name Microsoft was chosen to honor the founder’s brain.

9. Jim Breyer referred to this company in 1996 as an “insanely great product company.”

10. This video, which can be found by searching under “Bill Gates Doom video” on the Internet, also establishes Gates, truly, as the founder of Eric Harris and Dylan Klebold’s “Trench Coat Mafia.”

11. Gates is more properly referred to now, as “Knight Commander of the Order of the British Empire,” as he was recently anointed with this dishonor, by the old hag, Queen Lizzie, herself! This reward is for those who have made “an important contribution to British interests.”

12. Is this what those long lines for Xbox are all about?

nership, Facebook introduced NewsFeed and Mini-Feed, whose purpose was to track and report the minute-to-minute activity of each user on the web, even when the user is not logged on to Facebook. In November 2007, Gates advanced further, investing $240 million into Facebook (whose annual revenue is only $200 million,) to provide access for 12 major companies, such as Coca-Cola, Blockbuster, and Verizon, to the NewsFeed system. Now, the Facebook fool can be tracked, even when not logged on to a computer! For example, if a Facebooker rents a movie at Blockbuster, or buys concert tickets from an affiliated vendor, all the details of those transactions are e-mailed to Facebook, and become part of the regularly updated NewsFeed post. When any member of "John Dodo's" Facebook "family" logs on to Facebook, he or she will read, "John Dodo was on these websites, investigating or purchasing these items, at these times." These posts will be read not only by John Dodo's "family," but they are sent back to the affiliated companies, for further profiling and thought-shaping of the users (or, should we call them "hosers"?). Soon enough, posts will read something like this, "The Facebook has determined that you will be interested in these movies, this music, this type of sexual partner, and these political views. Also, the Facebook has determined that you are not the type of person interested in science, Classical music, or, for that matter, truth."

Burying Yourself in Facebook

Audience Member: "... the interesting question will be, whether computers are alive."

Thiel: "I actually think the interesting question will be whether human beings are alive, but maybe it's the same question."<sup>13</sup>

So, is it just "information" about people that Thiel, Breyer, and Gates are interested in? Keep in mind that for them, information is equivalent to human intelligence. For science-fiction devotees Thiel, Gates, and Breyer, controlling information is the same as controlling the mind, or society as a whole. It's called, globalization.

Have you been to the zoo and looked at the animals in the cages? Facebook is worse. The people in Facebook must give up their souls to get in the cage. Humanity is not allowed in the "social graph," only information.<sup>14</sup>

If this seems extreme, just look at the latest Facebook-related murder case in Perugia, Italy.<sup>15</sup> A student, Meredith Kercher, was pinned down, then fatally slashed across her neck, after a ghoulish Halloween party only the night before, the pictures of which were posted on Kercher's Facebook account. In the aftermath of the murder, large groups on MySpace and Facebook have been "ooohing" and "aaahing" over every last detail of the sick crime, creating quite the sociogram for all to see. LaRouche is not being facetious when he calls Facebook a "tombstone with a picture attached."
